

Bowmar Adds Director of Sales and Business Development

October 2019

Bowmar welcomes Vern Fleming as Director of Sales and Business Development. Fleming brings years of business development experience, coupled with an extensive background in manufacturing, including training in the Toyota Production System.

Fleming's skills will be used to develop remote teams with the ability to perform at peak levels, imparting his experience and high energy throughout the organization. Bowmar's CEO Jeanice Croy looks forward to working with Fleming. "Vern has already made an incredible impact on our team and is helping to bring us much closer to our customers and grow our base further," says Croy.

"I am happy to be an integral part of the Bowmar team and excited to continue the company's growth with the high quality critical function assemblies for aerospace and defense markets," says Fleming.